Panama has launched a 500MW tender auction for renewables and energy storage, the first in Central America to include storage. The bidding process - held by the national secretary of energy and state-owned electricity transmission company, Empresa de Transmisi3n El3ctrica SA (ETESA) - is seeking Panama's tropical climate generates enough solar energy to power a small nation until monsoon season hits. That's where the Panama Energy Storage Battery Project steps in - think of it as a giant "energy piggy bank" for rainy days (literally). This $300 million initiative isn't just about keeping Panama's national secretary of energy has launched its first bidding auction exclusively for renewables and energy storage. The bidding process - held by the national secretary of energy and state-owned electricity transmission company, Empresa de Transmisi3n El3ctrica SA (ETESA) - is seeking 500MW On October 18, , a 372kWh liquid cooling battery energy storage system (BESS) was successfully installed in Panama. GSL Energy, a China-based manufacturer specializing in energy storage solutions, purchased the system. This project aims to enhance energy reliability and efficiency in Panama's The Panamanian government has issued a resolution recommending a long-term renewable energy procurement process to stabilize electricity prices. The Electric Transmission Company (ETESA) has been instructed to submit public bidding documents to the National Authority for Public Services (ASEP) by With 119 major storage projects in development across the tropics [5], Panama's becoming the ultimate proving ground. The winning tech here could soon be: As one judge quipped: "We're not just charging batteries - we're charging up the entire renewable energy playbook."
